Access and Request Content From Any Web Page

Article Galaxy Widget is a researcher's dream come true. Added to users' bookmarks bar, it provides shopping cart-like access to and simplified viewing of content extracted directly from preferred discovery environments like Google Scholar, PubMed and 70+ other online research tools. Take an online video tour: www.researchsolutions.com/widget101.

View Your Order History—All in One Place and On the Go

Browse your orders on any mobile device from anywhere. Review your entire order history, search and filter orders, and even download a PDF, all in one place. For any citation, open the Article Explorer and get trending article stats, such as online popularity measured in social media mentions, instant availability options of the article, and cited-by references in other publications, at a glance.

Insights On-Demand

Instead of manually reviewing and identifying data across multiple disparate sources, enable your team to speed up the knowledge creation process by automating data insights. Today, gadgets provide one-click enhancement and extraction from bibliographic information—and we have much more in store for the future!
